The Tennessee Watercolor Society (TnWS) strives to present exciting, versatile exhibitions that display watermedia pieces created in both traditional and cutting-edge watercolor techniques. Watermedia is an important, permanent painting medium, and one of our goal is to elevate the stature of all watermedia. Our group works to support watermedia artists through our programs, competitive exhibits, and workshops and we encourage everyone to study watermedia. TnWS membership includes artists who are Tennessee residents over the age of eighteen and our local Nashville chapter, one of five regional chapters, has over 100 members.

Watermedia affords itself to an endless variety of approaches that stretch the boundaries of an ages old medium. This exhibit, at Art at Parks, features the work of 29 artists from the Greater Nashville area. Many styles, techniques, and genres are represented.
